THE PRESENTATION:

Employment Issues to Consider in Defending Trucking Cases

We will discuss specific areas of concern in employment law for consideration while defending personal injury suits in the transportation setting, both in representing trucking companies and defending workers' compensation liens.

THE PRESENTERS:

Noelle M. Natoli-Duffy (nnatoli@foleymansfield.com)

Foley & Mansfield, PLLP, Los Angeles, CA

Noelle M. Natoli-Duffy is a partner in the Los Angeles office of Foley & Mansfield, PLLP and she chairs the firm's Transportation and Elder Law practice groups. Her civil practice has focused primarily in the defense of transportation, medical malpractice, and elder abuse claims. She has been defending truckers and trucking companies (both large and small) since 2004. Her litigation experience has also been instrumental in the successful defense of numerous fraudulent insurance claims through her investigative efforts and law and motion practice. She considers herself an advocate for the trucking industry, and writes prolifically on the topic.

She is a member of the International Association of Defense Counsel, Transportation Lawyers' Association, Trucking Industry Defense Association, and Defense Research Institute's Trucking Law Committee. She is a board member of the Womens' Lawyers Association of Los Angeles.

Louis C. Klein (lklein@foleymansfield.com)

Foley & Mansfield, PLLP, Los Angeles, CA

Louis C. Klein is a partner in the Los Angeles office of Foley & Mansfield, PLLP and is a member of the firm's Employment Practice Group. Mr. Klein has practiced labor and employment law since 1997, defending clients in notable cases such as whistleblowing retaliation, sexual harassment and discrimination; and wage and hour claims. He is experienced in all aspects of employment counseling, litigation, workplace investigation, case management, settlement and mediation; and trial practice. In addition, he is often asked to speak and write about labor and employment topics for statewide publications and professional conferences.
