WHAT IS THE IADC?

The International Association of Defense Counsel (IADC) is an elite international organization of approximately 2,500 peer-reviewed in-house counsel, insurance executives, and outside counsel representing business entities around the world. The IADC, which celebrates its centennial in 2020, has a long history as a champion of the legal interests of the business community and a leader in civil justice reform. For corporate counsel and insurance executives, the IADC provides resources and a network of peers to address and support their particular professional needs. For private practitioners, membership in the IADC provides a singular opportunity to meet with potential clients, distinguished colleagues, and influential referral sources in a unique collegial environment.

"For me, the practice of law is becoming increasingly international in its focus...What the IADC does for me is to put me in touch with true experts in other parts of the world - people who are the top practitioners in their particular jurisdictions. And as a result, I have developed networks with these great lawyers. I've developed wonderful friendships with these lawyers. I think that provides me with benefits above and beyond any other organization that I've been involved in. The IADC is a very, very special organization, and I don't know of any other lawyer association that comes even close to the sort of things the IADC can provide."

IADC GLOBAL CONNECTION

Membership in the IADC adds value to your life in a way that sets it apart from any other organization. One of the primary benefits of membership in the Association is the organization’s global connection and the union of education, business development, and relationships.

The IADC strives to promote professional development by providing superior training and continuing education opportunities while creating platforms for members to develop and foster valuable relationships with the finest outside counsel, corporate counsel, and insurance executives worldwide.

The Association’s small size, superior legal events, and carefully crafted programs and activities uniquely cultivate business success for members and enrich both their personal and professional lives.

To join the IADC, please fill out the paperwork attached with this invitation. A hard copy of the invitation and acceptance paperwork also has been mailed to you. If you have questions, please contact Membership Manager T.C. Bastin at +1.312.252.3828 or tbastin@iadclaw.org.
EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

The IADC provides educational opportunities that develop and enhance skills while providing an environment for camaraderie and business development.

MEETINGS

Corporate Counsel College and International Corporate Counsel College. These two-day conferences showcase highly respected panelists and speakers who address the challenges faced by in-house counsel, insurance executives, and their advisors. The International Corporate Counsel College is held in Europe and focuses on the latest European legal issues.

Professional Liability Roundtable. This afternoon program offers insight into key professional liability issues that affect lawyers and insurance executives. We now also offer a track where programming focuses on medical liability issues.

Trial Academy. This one-week, intensive trial advocacy training program provides realistic training for trial lawyers representing corporations and insurers. This program blends small group faculty instruction and demonstration with individual student participation.

Annual and Midyear Meetings. The two largest IADC meetings combine timely CLE, committee business meetings and internal programs, and networking and social opportunities.

"There are so many different opportunities in the organization to not only network but also mature and develop professionally. In terms of the meetings, the CLE’s are absolutely fantastic...There [are] Webinars available online that you can participate in. All kinds of opportunities to join Substantive [Law] Committees and become involved - it just helps you develop professionally. It has made me a much better lawyer in addition to the great networking and referral opportunities.”

EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

The IADC provides educational opportunities that develop and enhance skills while providing an environment for camaraderie and business development.

ONLINE EDUCATION

Webinars. IADC Webinars provide members and their colleagues and clients with complimentary one-hour educational opportunities presented by IADC members who are leading experts in the subject matter. The IADC presents 15 - 20 Webinars yearly, and they constitute a highly efficient and valuable benefit. Webinar presentations are recorded and shared on the IADC website for members to view them later.

NETWORKING

Regional Meetings. The IADC organizes Regional Meetings all over the world to provide members and guests the chance to convene for short educational programs and connect with one another a bit closer to home. These popular meetings are free of charge, open to guests, and provide an opportunity to discuss relevant issues with local members of the Association.

The IADC provides its membership with a number of beneficial resources and opportunities to engage in and utilize in order to further develop a worthwhile return on their investment in the Association.

AMICUS CURIAE PROGRAM

The IADC’s Amicus Curiae program improves the civil justice system through appellate advocacy. The IADC regularly files briefs in pending cases throughout the United States to support a wide variety of defense issues of broad application.

PARTICIPATION THROUGH IADC COMMITTEES

The heart of the Association is its more than three dozen Committees through which members network, expand and build skills, and further the objectives of the defense bar and business community. Substantive Law Committees are open to all members and are excellent venues in which to connect with others with similar interests and expertise. Committees meet at the Annual and Midyear Meetings, develop Webinars, publish newsletters and Defense Counsel Journal articles, share ideas and resources through conference calls and online Communities, and work on special projects.

RESOURCES

The IADC provides its membership with a number of beneficial resources and opportunities to engage in and utilize in order to further develop a worthwhile return on their investment in the Association.

QUICK REFERENCE GUIDES

Various IADC Substantive Law Committees have created quick reference guides that provide brief overviews of rules and regulations by state or country that are great resources and reference tools for you and your clients.

SCHOLARLY OPPORTUNITIES

The IADC promotes academic dialogue through the publication of its quarterly Defense Counsel Journal. Published continuously since 1934, the Journal is an internationally respected publication that focuses on topical and scholarly legal issues involving substantive law, procedures, and trial techniques. The IADC also offers all members the opportunity to contribute articles to Substantive Law Committee monthly newsletters which provide up-to-date information on important legal developments.

ONLINE MEMBER COMMUNITIES

Our online discussion groups (IADC Communities) are designed to facilitate interactive conversations between IADC colleagues who have similar interests. They provide a forum to share ideas and questions related to specific specialties, provide members a way to discover best practices and news in a quick and easy manner, as well as submit expert witness inquiries. IADC Communities enhance communication among members and allow you to benefit from the experience, knowledge, and wisdom of your peers.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Think IADC First is a program designed to promote ways members can make and receive referrals when the opportunity arises to refer business, including through the IADC website and many networking activities. With the talent and expertise of our members, you can be confident that your client will be well represented when referred to an IADC member.

BEYOND THE PROFESSION

The IADC has an annual retention rate of approximately 93 percent of its membership. This is a testament to many factors. The IADC does offer excellent benefits and a special environment in which lawyers of a certain level of experience can interact professionally. But what the IADC offers goes beyond the practice of law. IADC members are not just colleagues but friends, and their families get to know each other at meetings that often result in close relationships that cross continents. The IADC is not just a network of professionals but a family. It is that distinct spirit of friendship and community that make the IADC special.

"This is probably one of the best organizations to belong to because you don’t have to leave your family at home here with the IADC. I think when you speak to your spouse or significant other about joining a professional organization, you can inform them that the IADC is a family. It really integrates children and spouses and significant others in the organization, in the activities, and it really is an opportunity to share your professional life with your family."
