

Kay Barnes Baxter
Foley & Mansfield
New Orleans, Louisiana

Kay Barnes Baxter is a partner at Foley & Mansfield and recently opened and manages its New Orleans, Louisiana office. She is a 1994 graduate of Loyola University's School of Law; and is admitted to practice in Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas. While she has successfully practiced in many areas of the law, she has always been a litigator. In recent years she has specialized in toxic tort and environmental law in both state and federal courts. Her litigation practice focuses on the defense of toxic torts, occupational disease, environmental claims alleging personal injury, property damage, as well as issues involving various areas of construction litigation, transportation and workers compensation. Her clients include Fortune 500 companies as well as small local companies, executive officers, contractors, suppliers and manufacturers. She is national trial counsel for several of her clients. She has access to the foremost nationally and internationally known experts in their various fields of expertise. Kay is also active in her community by serving on various local boards and volunteering to assist the Louisiana State Bar Association in both its Professionalism and Mentoring Programs for incoming law students and young lawyers.