

Nicole B. Boehler
Squire Patton Boggs (US) LLP
Böblingen, Germany

Nicole B. Boehler is the Böblingen office managing partner for global law firm Squire Patton Boggs. She advises national and international clients in Germany and the US, particularly in the areas of product liability, procedural law and risk management. She specializes in advising German companies in the US, regularly works closely with US authorities and has extensive experience in defending against class action lawsuits.

Nicole graduated from the University of Illinois (Bachelor, Political Science and Economics) and George Washington University (J.D.). She holds a Master of European Law and Economics from the University of Hamburg. She is admitted to practice in Virginia and Washington DC in the US, and is a member of the Stuttgart Bar / Rechtsanwaltskammer Stuttgart (BRAO §206).