

Sharon L. Caffrey
Duane Morris LLP
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Sharon L. Caffrey is co-chair of Duane Morris' Trial Practice Group. Ms. Caffrey concentrates her practice in the areas of mass tort, products liability and toxic tort litigation. Ms. Caffrey's experience ranges from serving as the national coordinating counsel for Pliva, Inc., in its PPA litigation, to serving as one of two science defense coordinators and one of a handful of national trial counsel for Ford Motor Company and General Motors Corporation in their asbestos litigation, to handling major asbestos trials around the country for Ford Motor Company and CSX Transportation, Inc. Ms. Caffrey has significant trial experience, including extensive experience as MDL counsel in both asbestos and PPA litigation. She has worked on a trial team for a medical device manufacturer involving hip implant litigation, including the development of experts for use in dozens of cases. Ms. Caffrey also represents a CSX Transportation, Inc. in its Pennsylvania area litigation, ranging from FELA matters, complex preemption issues, and the defense of significant third party personal injury claims.

Ms. Caffrey's extensive trial experience also includes trying dozens of product liability, mass tort, health effects and medical negligence cases to verdict, the vast majority to defense verdicts. She was presented with an "Excellence in Trial Advocacy" award twice by CSX Transportation, Inc.

Ms. Caffrey is a frequent speaker on issues related to Daubert and Frye, and has handled numerous Daubert and Frye hearings, challenging the admissibility of the opposing parties' expert witnesses.
