

Paul V. Kelly
Jackson Lewis P.C.
Boston, Massachusetts

Paul Kelly has been a trial attorney for over 30 years, including 10 years as an Assistant U.S. Attorney. He currently serves as Chair of both the White Collar & Government Enforcement and Collegiate & Professional Sports practice groups at the firm of Jackson Lewis P.C. Mr. Kelly has substantial experience trying cases in both state and federal court. As a prosecutor he has tried dozens of jury trials involving assorted criminal charges, including racketeering, fraud, counterfeiting, arson and explosives, corruption, money laundering and murder. He has also tried a number of cases as defense counsel, several resulting in acquittals. Mr. Kelly also has significant experience in civil litigation, including obtaining a defense verdict in a recent high-profile civil rights action involving a drug lab scandal in Massachusetts. He defended an airline passenger screening company in the multi-year 9/11 litigation, and he has successfully represented several professional and collegiate athletes in civil, criminal and administrative proceedings. Mr. Kelly holds a preeminent AV rating from Martindale Hubbell, is listed in Woodward/White's Best Lawyers in America, and has been selected by his peers as one of the top 100 Super Lawyers in Massachusetts for several years running.