

Antoine Bigenwald

Antoine Bigenwald, one of our Langlois' partners, specializes in construction-law litigation and dispute resolution. He represents all participants in the construction industry, from project owners to sub-contractors, including architects, engineers, promoters, general contractors and international construction companies, before all levels of Quebec courts. He has considerable experience in complex litigation cases with multiple parties and lengthy trials.

Antoine takes a proportionate approach to files that is commensurate with the extent of the risk. He is creative when it comes to alternative dispute-resolution solutions, and combative when it comes to asserting his clients' rights.
