

Dr. Liza Lovdahl Gormsen joined the British Institute of International and Comparative Law (BIICL) 1 September 2014 as a Senior Research Fellow and the director of the Competition Law Forum. Liza has a background in both private practice and public enforcement. She served as a Lawyer at the Office of Fair Trading (now the Competition Markets Authority) for almost 5 years, where she gained extensive experience in consumer goods industries and pharmaceuticals. Liza has also worked with the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills (now Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy) where she compiled a study on consumer empowerment across seven jurisdictions.

Previously, Liza was a Senior Lecturer at University of Manchester and London School of Economics where she taught Competition Law in an International Context, Business Law, Company Law and Corporate Governance.

Liza obtained her PhD in Competition Law (2007) at King's College London supervised by Emeritus Professor Richard Whish QC and visiting Professor David Bailey (Brick Court Chambers). For the past 5 years, she has acted as an external examiner for the LLM in European Competition Law, Diploma in Competition Law and Diploma in European Law at King's College London.

Liza is a speaker at national as well as international conferences on a broad range of issues and has published a variety of articles in European competition law. She is the author of A Principle Approach to Abuse of Dominance – a book published by Cambridge University Press. Liza has been involved in a number of legal submissions to the European Commission and was involved in the European Commission's review of Article 82 EC (now Article 102 TFEU). She is currently instructed by the World Bank to assess newly adopted competition law regimes in developing countries.
