

Todd Stillerman
Assistant General Counsel & Director
Bank of America Merrill Lynch
Charlotte, North Carolina

Todd Stillerman is an Assistant General Counsel and Director for Bank of America Merrill Lynch's Fixed Income group, which includes asset backed-securitization (including CMBS and RMBS), origination and servicing for securitized commercial real estate loans, and other structured finance products. He is also a part in Bank of America Merrill Lynch internal team for implementation of regulatory reforms under the Dodd-Frank Act.

Todd is co-chair of the Bank of America Legal Department's Pro Bono Committee and is a member of its Diversity and Inclusion Business Council. He is currently president of the board of directors for Charlotte Center for Legal Advocacy and is a past chair of the Mecklenburg County Bar's Volunteer Lawyers Program Committee.

Prior to joining Bank of America Merrill Lynch, Todd spent 14 years in private practice, most recently as a structured finance partner at Dewey Ballantine LLP, where he represented issuers and underwriters in asset-backed securitizations and lenders in commercial real estate finance transactions.

Todd is a graduate of Wake Forest University and Harvard Law School.
