

Scott J. Wilkov
Tucker Ellis LLP
Cleveland, Ohio

Scott Wilkov defends product manufacturers as both national and local counsel in coal mine dust, silica, asbestos, and other toxic exposure litigation as a member of the Mass Tort and Products Liability practice of Tucker Ellis LLP in Cleveland, Ohio. Scott's strategic insight and experience with complex cases has enabled him to be a principal architect of winning strategies for serial litigation defense. And his understanding of science has been a key contribution in these cases as he identifies and develops the most appropriate experts to advance the theories of the defense. Prior to embarking on this career in civil litigation, Scott served on active duty in the United States Air Force Judge Advocate General's Corps. His penultimate assignment was as the senior prosecutor for installations in the Western United States. Through over a decade of military service, Scott tried over 100 cases as a prosecutor and defense counsel. Scott earned his juris doctor degree from the University of Arizona College of Law where he was Managing Editor of the Arizona Law Review.
