

Angel Tang Nakamura

Angel Tang Nakamura's practice focuses on the management of complex, multi-party product liability matters, including class actions and multi-district litigations (MDLs). Her clients include pharmaceutical, medical device, and consumer product manufacturers. She has served as national counsel in multiple mass torts proceedings, and is highly skilled at managing discovery and litigation teams across multiple jurisdictions. Ms. Nakamura also represents energy, banking, and technology companies in various types of litigation.

Due to the global reach of her cases, Ms. Nakamura is regularly called upon to manage cross-border litigation for clients with both foreign and domestic business needs. In particular, Ms. Nakamura has led legal teams in various parts of Asia, including China and India, and counseled clients on the unique challenges presented by cross-border disputes.

Ms. Nakamura serves on the firm's Hiring and Pro Bono Committees, and holds leadership positions in a number of the firm's affinity groups, including Women Lawyers of Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer. In addition, Ms. Nakamura is co-editor of the firm's Digital Health Download blog (mobile health and emerging technologies) and Data Security Roundup (privacy, data security, and cyber security).