

John A. Olah

John A. Olah practises Civil Litigation. He specializes in complex tort litigation ranging from cases involving product liability, a wide variety of sports injuries and the liability of hotels, resorts and bars. He is also involved in private international law cases as well as business litigation issues.

Mr. Olah is the author of a number of articles on civil litigation. He has lectured across Canada and in the United States on trial advocacy. He was a guest instructor and demonstrator in advocacy at the Intensive Advocacy Programme for trial lawyers at Osgoode Hall Law School. He also taught advocacy at Osgoode Hall Law School. He is the author of "The Art and Science of Advocacy", a two volume loose leaf textbook for lawyers on trial tactics and trial procedure. Mr. Olah has been counsel in a number of high profile cases including the Van Breda case recently decided by the Supreme Court of Canada as to when Canadian courts can take jurisdiction over cases where the tort occurred outside of Canada.