

Ingrid VanderElst

Ingrid is a veteran of the agribusiness industry. She helps local and global agri-food producers, distributors and retailers navigate the Canadian regulatory landscape. Ingrid provides advice on all types of compliance issues including food safety, recalls, packaging and labelling requirements (including nutritional labelling), food standards, novel food additives, GMOs, establishment licensing and marketing and advertising rules. She also advises on product and establishment licensing requirements, provides support in connection with inspections, recalls and customer complaints, conducts due diligence in connection with corporate transactions involving food companies and advises on issues relating to approvals for novel seeds, feeds and foods, fertilizers and agricultural pest control products.